

Employees

Rasco's most important asset is its cadre of qualified and dedicated employees. Rasco's employees value teamwork and communication, ensuring the company works smoothly and efficiently.

Customer Service

Rasco is focused on the customer and on market requirements. One of the most important features of a handler is how well its manufacturer services the customer after the sale. Rasco is dedicated to keeping in close contact with its customers and providing a fast reaction to the customer's requirements. Each region – Europe, the United States, Asia - handles its own sales and service activities, to allow for the fastest and most detailed response. In addition, there are company representatives worldwide, who help support the customer sales and service.

Competence and Flexibility

Rasco's success is based on its technical skill, competence and flexibility. Modern technology requires a flexible approach; this is especially true in the semiconductor industry. Rasco's structure and experience allows it to respond quickly to changing market conditions and evolving technology, to better serve its customers.

Quality

Rasco's customers demand high quality, precision and reliability from a handler, and Rasco's product lines are up to the challenge. Rasco's market image and customer acceptance proves that its handlers meet the demands of today's market. Rasco is also moving towards gaining its ISO 9000 certification.

Innovation

Rasco's innovative approach to the development and presentation of new products guarantees a place at the top of the market and ensures customer trust in the strength of the company.

Job & Education

Highly skilled workers, trainees, students, apprentices and graduates are cordially invited to join the Rasco team. Rasco is dedicated to creating new jobs and offers an interesting and technically challenging working environment. The company's employees are encouraged to continue their education while working at Rasco.

Environment

Rasco is concerned about the environment and places high importance to saving natural resources by using the most efficient means of production and industrial consumer goods.

Growth

Rasco looks to the future. Its profits are invested in the expansion of design, production and personnel capacities. The company's goal is to extend its market share and to increase its global sales and service network.
